As the result of his Saturday visit to the President, Henley now announces that Tinnin's name will soon be sent to the Senate for confirmation, which, Henley declares, is already assured despite the fight made against the Trinity man by several of the California Congressmen.

The Railroad Gazette gives its annual table of statistics of railroad traffic, and says: There is nothing in the present situation to indicate a great increase in railroad profits the incoming year, or rather the next half year, which is as far as we can see ahead, though there is much to indicate that they will be decidedly larger than in the extremely unsatisfactory months ending with August last. Advances in price, based upon the conviction that there will be no reduction of profits, are likely to be justified.

The Sacramento Bee which is generally a newsy and enterprising journal, published an excellent Christmas number, in which, among other items of interest, are illustrations of the buildings which have been used as the Capitol of the Golden State from 1849 to the present time. Monterey was the seat of Government, with the exception of a few years, from 1781 to 1849, when it was removed to San Jose, where it remained until 1851 when it was transferred to Vallejo, from which place, before the close of the session, the Legislature removed it to Sacramento. From Sacramento it was removed to Benicia where it remained until 1854, when Sacramento was selected as the permanent Capitol.

CLEVELAND'S NEW RULE.

The President has been long enough in office to realize that the position that he has assumed heretofore of investigating the character and capacity of every person recommended for office has been a mistaken one, besides involving more time than he could spare for such matters. He now proposes to hold Senators and members of Congress strictly responsible for their recommendations, and whatever charges are preferred against applicants so recommended he will leave to the Senate to determine. He believes that this division of responsibility with the Senate is proper, and is what the Constitution intended. He has also resolved to take no interest whatever in the confirmation of those whom he is not personally satisfied with, leaving the Senate to confirm or reject. This change of policy has staggered a great many Senators and members who have been in the habit of recommending to him applicants for office merely to get rid of them, and thus throw on him the responsibility of deciding upon their character and efficiency. Of course, this policy is only to apply to nominations made at the instance of Senators, members and others, and of whom he has no knowledge of his own to guide him. So, if any such nominations turn out wrong and unwise, the country will know that the fault will not rest with the President, but with those who impose upon him by such recommendations.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD DEBT.

The San Francisco Chronicle remarks: The Pacific Railways are abundantly able to pay their debts on demand, principal and interest to the last cent. There are no nobler railway properties in the world than the lines which consolidate under the name of the Southern Pacific Company, and the lines which are consolidated under the name of the Union Pacific Company. People who suggest that the business of these roads is going to be taken away from them by competing lines don't know what they are talking about. They are building up a local business which renders them quite independent of through traffic. And every year, with here and there an occasional set-back, the business is increasing. In the next ten years the people who will have to rely on the Central and Union Pacific for their transportation will double in numbers, and their products will increase in value four-fold. Any syndicate which could secure these roads for the face of the subsidy bonds and overdue interest, subject to the first mortgage, would get a bargain the like of which the world has seldom seen. But no such luck awaits the United States.

The Question of Confirmation

Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, who, by the way, has dropped into Riddleberger's place on the Committee on Railroads, being questioned as to the probable attitude of the Senate on the President's appointment expressed the opinion that unless charges are made against the ousted Republican officeholders, their successors would, doubtless, be readily confirmed. In the event of charges being made against the ousted officials, however, confirmation could not be had until such charges were proven. He believed, though, that the oft-mentioned "senatorial courtesy" was not altogether dead; and that where a nomination was personally offensive to any Senator, such objection would be accorded great weight.

Representing the Light.

Thanks to the untiring efforts of Congressman Morrow on the anti-Chinese question, there is no doubt that the matter will soon be settled in a manner entirely satisfactory to the people of the Pacific Coast. Mr. Morrow, after personally explaining to the President and Secretaries Bayard and Manning the true state of affairs prevailing on this coast and the necessity of a more effective restriction of Chinese immigration, received from each of the officials named an assurance that they were in hearty sympathy with us, and would do all in their power to assist in keeping out the Chinese.

The Postoffice Department at Washington is acting in a very cracked way over the mail service of Nye county. A little study of the geography of the country would prove a benefit to the P. O. D. and the public generally.—Belmont Courier.

To Remove Alkali From the Soil.

Tulare Times.
Alkali land can be found in all parts of Tulare county. Its distribution is very irregular and cannot be traced to any intelligible cause. The best land in the county contains what are known as "alkali spots." Analyses by Professor Hilgard of alkali soil taken from the Goshen lands, and that found near Bakersfield, reveal marked differences. The former is exceedingly poisonous to vegetation, while the latter is innocuous. Many different theories are held by the people of this valley relative to the best mode of removing this peculiar mineral substance or neutralizing its effect. They all agree, however, that it is generally found on the richest soil, and that cultivation has tended to remove it from the land.

Much controversy exists here as to the effects of irrigation upon alkali land. Some claim that irrigation will remove the alkali, while others assert that it will draw the alkali to the surface, thus aggravating the evil it is intended to cure. But it must not be forgotten in arguing thus that there are different kinds of irrigation. The lands in the Mussel Slough country are chiefly moistened by the percolation through the soil of the water beneath the surface. In other parts of the county the land is generally wet by flooding. In the former case the water rises toward the surface, in the latter it descends from the surface. Obviously those methods, being directly opposite in their operations, must differ largely in their effect. The alkali is soluble, and is carried by the rising water to the surface when the former method is employed. Flooding naturally has a contrary effect, and sinks the alkali deeper into the soil. The idea entertained by so many, that the water washes the alkali away, is entirely erroneous. The mineral substance, coming into contact with the liquid, is immediately dissolved, and sinks with the water which holds it into the earth, and beyond the reach of all subsequent flooding.

Dr. W. A. Russell has given this subject much attention, and has reached conclusions which may prove of practical value to farmers. He says that the water, strongly impregnated with alkali, is carried by capillary attraction to the surface, where it evaporates and leaves a crust of alkali, which is visible to the naked eye. This crust disappears with the first rain, and the soil gives no indication of the presence of the destructive mineral. He concludes from the state of facts that there are but two practical remedies. One is to sink the alkali so deep that it will not reappear. The other is to remove it from the surface when the ground is dry. Many years ago he visited the ranch of Mr. William Benware, southeast of this city, and was astonished to learn that the garden, a very beautiful one, had formerly been the worst alkali spot on the place. Mr. Benware, who is now deceased, explained that his method of removing alkali was to flood the land in the Fall season for four days, keeping the water confined in the required area by small levees. He claimed that in this period of time the water would soak down to subterranean currents, carrying the alkali with it. When it reached these hidden streams it was borne away, and the alkali was gone, never to return.

Not Molested.

The Call says: It was supposed some opposition would be made to Mr. Barclay Henley taking his seat on the floor of the House of Representatives, on the ground that he had expatriated himself as an American by becoming a citizen of Mexico under the imperial rule of Maximilian. So far, no movement has been made to dispute his right as a Congressman. It is well known that he was born in the United States, and that he served a term in Congress since his return from Mexico. These facts doubtless have a controlling influence over the minds of Congressmen which prevents them from making any contest to noseat Mr. Henley, who is a Democrat, in a body where the Democracy are largely in the majority. He is also the only Democrat in the California delegation, and his advice is supposed to be needed when the Administration acts upon California appointments to office.

A Thing of Beauty.

The Eureka Sentinel, of last Sunday, says:

We were shown yesterday, a large card, probably 16x20 inches, on which upwards of 290 specimens of Nevada minerals are placed. The specimens are very choice and beautiful, and each one is numbered, so that by referring to an index their names and the localities from which they were obtained can be readily learned. Around the edge of the card is a border, three-quarters of an inch wide, of ground galena ore, which, when the entire is properly framed, will add in no small degree to its beauty. The card was gotten up by Messrs. E. G. Morrison and Otto Boetzel, and is meant as a present for Superintendent Frank Robbins, of the Eureka Con. works and mines.

The New Chinese Restriction Bill.

The Bulletin admirably reviews the Chinese situation. It says:

The bill introduced by Hon. W. W. Morrow in the House to restrict Chinese immigration, is in the third of the series. The first Restriction Act was rendered practically inoperative by the efforts of French, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under Folger, and by Brewster, Attorney General. The prior residence dodge set up by the former, and the habeas corpus operations of the Federal Courts almost utterly destroyed its validity. The second Restriction Act was passed to correct the erroneous rulings of the courts. But it only produced still further complications. Mc- Cullough, a short time Secretary of the Treasury, did all he could to upset what remained. What actuated these men to attempt to break the laws of the country is only a matter of conjecture. Some of them suffer them beyond question, to be imposed upon. The most flag- gitous part of the bad work was done by subordinates.

It may be said that there is no effec- tive restriction of Chinese immigration at this time. The invaders are pouring in as in the average years of the Yellow Flood. There is more expense attend- ant upon effecting an entry. Clerks, Marshals, Attorneys, Custom House officers, without much doubt, have been reaping a harvest, but the Coolies are coming in great numbers. But there is no bar to the alien influx. It must be apparent to anyone who has taken the trouble to observe the condition of things in this State, and on the Pacific Coast generally, that this invasion cannot go on. There is not a city or town in the State which has not been moving against the Chinese. It is falsehood of the most brazen character to say that any class in particular is repelling the intruders. From many places they have been removed altogether. In other places a boycott, more or less severe, has been set up against them.

The student of political history will observe that non-intercourse is the second stage of the effort of the com- munity to throw off the undesirable ele- ment. The first stage was merely one of appeal to the General Government. Nothing more was attempted than a demand on Congress to prohibit the fur- ther introduction of the new form of slavery. In the second stage the peo- ple have begun to act for themselves. The movement up to the present time has been essentially law-abiding throughout the State. Persons who have any knowledge of the conditions of popular action, need not be told what the next stage is likely to be if no heed is paid at Washington to the just de- mands of our people. The self-reliance which is the notable characteristic of the young communities in the far West should not be overlooked.

The bill introduced by Mr. Morrow is intended to repair the breaches which have already been effected in Restriction. The measure does not go by any means as far as our people desire. The enactment that would give them entire satisfaction would be one ruling out the Chinese absolutely and for all time. Those who have studied the question thoroughly are satisfied that that rule will have to come in the end. The race from which our people have sprung and the Chinese have never, in the history of the world, intermingled. There is less chance of amalgamation now than ever, for the chasm has been widened. The descendants of the Aryans have been advancing from one brilliant stage in their development to another for thousands of years, while the Chinese have been stationary.

Though the Chinese have been domi- ciled in this State for upward of thirty- five years, we know nothing of the motives by which they, as a rule, are actuated. This has resulted from the fact that their literature has not been considered worthy of exploration. It is nothing but a dead mass of accumulated pedantry. Not many persons have thought it worth their while to learn their language. The Chinese, as a consequence, know more of the whites than we know of them. They fully compre- hend the tendency of some of us to sentimental gush and they play the un- thinking and self-sufficient accordingly. We know no more of the Chinese than that they have no code of morals like ours. Perjury and falsehood are recog- nized accomplishments among the Ori- entals. The evidence is overwhelming that the Chinese are a nation of liars. They lie in their histories and their public and official documents. They have no conception of women but as slaves. They recognize slavery and polygamy, or rather concubinage. They are addicted to unspeakable vices. They are subject to the most loathsome dis- eases. They believe that every person takes on the character of the food he eats. Tiger meat accordingly has a boom in time of war. It is believed in China that the man who partakes of it acquires the courage and ferocity of that animal. Their system of medicine is composed wholly of nostrums and in- cantations. They are two thousand years behind the times. There can be no common life or purpose between a people so backward and degraded and civilized men. Henry Ward Beecher may be able to tell how a mixture can be effected which has not taken place since the world began, that is to say a blend- ing of Aryan and Turanian. But nobody else can. Beecher, however, knows everything, and that without study or application of any sort.

The new features in the bill of Repre- sentative Morrow, are that certificates issued to departing Chinese shall only be good for two years. There cannot be said to be anything harsh in a rule of that nature. In twelve of the exist- ing treaties of the United States, a foreign-born citizen who remains two years abroad is held to have forfeited his American citizenship. New safe- guards are thrown about the issue of certificates. No ship is to carry more than one Chinese passenger to every fifty tons. This would limit Chinese passengers to forty or fifty in each steamer. The question of the right of entry is to be determined exclusively by the political power of the Government, and the period of exclusion is extended for twenty years more.

NEW YEAR'S CALLS.

Society in New York Resolved to Discourage Them.

A New York dispatch of the 27th says: Hard blows are to be struck this year at the custom of New Year's calling here in the city, where it originated with the early Dutch families. Scarcely a fash- ionable house will be open to visitors on that day, and most of the very pre- tentious women will be away. Many will go to their country places, taking friends along for a few days of wintry outing, but the noteworthy thing will be a gathering of highly important society people at Long Branch, where a hotel has been hired for a great New Year's ball. The premises are now be- ing outfitted for the purpose. The guests will remain three days, eating and sleeping there, and engaging in a general frolic, practically excluded at this time of the year from the common world. Should there be snow, sleighing will be a diversion. The ball will be elaborate in its directions, music and supper, and the company will number 200, carefully selected from the sort of New Yorkers who dislike to do anything the multitude can copy. They calculate that hereafter New Year's calling will be distinctly unfashionable in New York.

Veritable Wild Man in the Mount- ains.

Much excitement has been created in the neighborhood of Lebanon, Oregon, recently over the discovery of a wild man in the mountains above that place, who is supposed to be the long-lost John Mackentire. About four years ago Mackentire, of Lebanon, while out hunting in the mountains east of Albany with another man, mysteriously disap- peared, and no definite trace of him has ever since been found. A few days ago Mr. Fitzgerald and others, while hunt- ing in the vicinity of the butte known as Bald Peter, situated in the Cascades, several miles above any settlement, saw a man resembling the long-lost man, entirely destitute of clothing, who had grown as hairy as an animal, and was a complete wild man. He was eating the raw flesh of a deer when he was first seen, and they approached within a few yards before he saw them and fled. Isaac Barty saw this man in the same locality about two years ago. It is believed by many that the unfortunate man who was lost became deranged and has managed to find means of subsist- ence while wandering about in the mount- ains, probably finding shelter in some cave. A party of several men is being organized to go in search of the man.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incal- culable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regu- lates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and en- ergy to the whole system. Mrs. Win- slow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. Feb. 21-wtf-1vr
